No Colleague Left Behind

A paid panel of mentors dedicated to sole and small firm practitioners is at the heart of my vision for change in this area. In my opinion, we simply do not spend real money on mentoring.

I have already submitted a formal proposal to the Law Society and need your support to see this through. As a profession we are paying out huge sums for liability claims and discipline hearings. This plan for a paid panel of mentors will redirect these funds and ultimately save money. Legally and culturally competent mentors can be a serious tool in overcoming the various systemic barriers that disadvantaged members of our profession face on a daily basis. There is an irrefutable business case for doing the right thing - no one need be left behind.
